DESCRIPTION

Under current law, soil and water conservation subdistricts are governed by district supervisors. The proposed legislation changes board of soil and water conservation district supervisors from the governing body of subdistricts to advisory to subdistrict boards. They are to govern only on the formation, consolidation, expansion, or disestablishment of subdistricts.

The proposal changes the requirements for persons serving as trustees of a subdistrict. Under current law, a trustee must be a person living within the subdistrict. This proposal requires the trustee to be a landowner within the subdistrict.
